

How much was the histamine receptor overexpressed in 6D? we have IF data → at least of the previous experiment – I complicated the other. Did increasing levels of histamine receptor expression increase the histamine response by increasing cytoplasmic calcium? That's basically what we speculate. Given the complexities of the G-protein signaling, is it possible that other components of the signal transduction pathway are limiting? Maybe, I don't totally get this point though.